Designed for ultimate flexibility, our manufacturing facility is setup to efficiently produce small or large quantities of highly specialized materials. Necessity has driven us to provide you with products especially designed to do a specific operation; products that are not only formulated to work in that process, but also designed to take previous and later processes into consideration. Because we produce and sell only compounds, we have gained valuable experience working with a wide array of makes and models of equipment, and can give objective advice on all your equipment and media needs.
